Neil Competes In The Olympic Finals Sunday

This Week-end, Herschel Neil Will Compete In the 200-Meter Dash and Hop-Step-Jump Finals

Confident that he could cover over 50 feet in his hop-step and jump, Herschel Neil, Bearcat track star and Olympic finalist, left Maryville Tuesday evening at five o'clock for Randall Island in New York City where he will compete in final events Sunday.

Neil accompanied President Uel W. Lamkin by auto as far east as Chicago and from that point, he continued on to New York by train. He was due to arrive in New York sometime Thursday morning.

In New York, Neil plans to meet Coach Wilbur Stalcup who is, during this summer, taking scholastic work in Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge. After two days of training and one of resting, Neil will compete in both the 200-meter dash event and the hop-step-jump event.

If Neil wins one of the first three places in either event, he will sail Monday morning with other members of the United States' Olympic track team for the Eleventh Olympiad being held this year in Berlin, Germany. There is also a chance that Neil may be chosen as a runner on the United States' relay team in the Olympic games.

Last Thursday night, the American Olympic track and field committee selected Neil as one of the qualifiers in the 200-meter dash at the Olympic finals at Randall Island in New York City. The announcement was made by William J. Bingham, chairman of the Olympic committee.

Neil's selection was made on the basis of his performance in the Olympic semi-finals two weeks ago in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The committee also selected 152 additional qualifiers for the 200-meter dash. Winners of first and second place in the four semi-final trials already have been certified to the Olympic team finals, and a few were selected from the Princeton meet last week-end.

Neil will compete in both the 200-meter dash and the hop-step-jump event on the same day, Sunday.

During Coach Stalcup's absence this summer, Coach E. A. Davis and Mr. Herbert R. Dieterich, chairman of the College athletic committee, have had charge of Neil's daily workouts.

"It is better a hundred thousand times to be beaten over an arbitration case than to be victorious in a modern war. That is the lesson we have learn and to teach—let us highly resolve never by one jot or tittle to promote the cause of wars, or to make man believe in the necessity of the ordeal by battle. If we can but cultivate the Will to Peace at home and abroad the great fight for peace will be won—I am confident that the will to peace is growing and that the common sense of the peoples will make it finally victorious over all obstacles."—Sir Esme Howard, Former British Ambassador to

EARTH TUNE
To a bright, sounding shell,
A subtle, strong shell,
I put up my ear and listen;
The pointed notes make
A deathless heart-ache,
And silvery teardrops glisten.
But I must listen long
To the harsh, hateful song,
To delusions and fancies so strange,
To the singing, bright shell,
The hard, humming shell,
That carries an earth-wide range.

Many Attend "Hic-Stic-Pic" Last Monday

Annual Knights of Hickory Stick Picnic is Great Success at Maryville Country Club

Forsaking their "hickory sticks" for baseball bats and golf clubs, 122 Knights of the Hickory Stick "played hookey from school" last Monday afternoon and frolicked at the Country Club.

The occasion was the "Hi-Stic-Pic" picnic, annual summer outing of the school men of Northwest Missouri. The picnic was a joint affair for men at the College and men out in the field.

Activities of the afternoon started shortly after 2 o'clock, when the teachers and students were transported to the Country Club in the College bus and private cars. The golf tournament got under way at once, and it was not long before teams were organized and play was started in volley ball, pin ball,

All-School Party Will Be Held Tonight

Student Senate's Quarterly Party In Library and at College Pool Will Be Informal Affair

Each and every student enrolled in the College this summer is cordially invited to attend the big free, no-date, all-school summer party to be held this evening and which is sponsored by the Student Senate of the College.

The party will be held at the College pool in the gymnasium and in the College East and West Libraries. Dancing will be in order in the West library and card playing in the East library, while at the pool, swimming will be the order of the evening. No admission will be charged for the affair.

Dean Miller, president of the Senate, Miss Ruth Millett, assistant director of women's activities, and Carlyle Breckenridge, general chairman, have had charge of plans for the affair. Walter Rulon, a senior in the College, will be master of ceremonies.

Buster Strong and his orchestre, of Maryville, will supply the music for the nimble feet of the dancers, and the band will play in the West Library where the dance is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock. At the same time, students who do not care for dancing may motivate in to the East Library where card playing will be in order.

For those who care, the College pool will afford the opportunity for a nice, cool dip during the course of the party. Cheerios will be served as refreshments.

Carlyle Breckenridge is general chairman of committees in charge of this evening's program; Elizabeth McFarland will have charge of the card activities in the East Library; and Clyde Bailey will have charge of the activities at the pool.

Ethel Hester is chairman of the refreshments committee, and Sue Brown and Maurine Lepley are other members of this committee.

Anti-Tuberculosis Program Prepared

A program of Tuberculosis Prevention is being sponsored by the Nodaway County Tuberculosis Association during the months of July and August. Miss Mabel Marvin, R. N., trained tuberculosis nurse, will conduct a survey in Nodaway County and will have charge of the educational program. A meeting of the Nodaway County Tuberculosis Association was held in the Court House at Maryville last week, at which time plans were made for a complete survey of the county.

Miss Frances Daniel, field worker for the Missouri Tuberculosis Association, with headquarters at St. Louis, met with the county association and helped arrange for the project.

Anyone in the county who knows of a case of tuberculosis or knows of a family that has had tuberculosis recently, will help along the prevention work by notifying County Superintendent W. H. Burr.

Social Activities Are Prominent On This Campus

After-hour "cozies" around the fireplace at Residence Hall, gay "splash" parties at the College pool, formal Christmas balls at the Country Club—these are only a few of the social events that make life more pleasant and instructive for students at the College.

Teaching students to be socially at ease is a big objective in the planning of the social life of the students, according to Miss Margaret Stephenson, director of women's activities, who is in charge of the school's social calendar. A variety of activities gives students an opportunity to meet many situations, and at the same time satisfies the many interests found in a student body of over seven hundred.

MISS MARGARET STEPHENSON

Each quarter the Student Senate sponsors an all-school party or dance. A large number of students attend these informal get-togethers, which are held at a very small cost of admittance. These affairs are in charge of the social committee appointed by the Senate, with Miss Stephenson and Miss Ruth Millett, assistant director of women's activities, as sponsors. Jean Montgomery was chairman of the committee during the 1935-36 school year, with Virginia Coe, Gara Williams, Rebecca Foley, Elizabeth Adams, Harold Person, Carlyle Breckenridge, Bruce Coffman, and Allan Kelso as other members.

The Thanksgiving party, a no-date affair, was the fall quarter entertainment sponsored by the Senate. Over 200 thanksgivers danced in the west library to tune-ful melodies played by the College Dance Band. Decorations followed the holiday theme.

"Hades Hop," held the evening of April 3, was the most successful all-school party of the year. A huge sign over the west library which read "All Hope Abandon Ye Who Enter In" furnished the "text" for the evening.

On December 13 the Senate sponsored its annual Christmas ball. The dance was a formal, and was held at the Country Club. Sixty couples attended.

At various occasions through the school year short afternoon dances were held in Social Hall. An orchestra was provided by the social committee.

Residence Hall is the center of social life at the College. Each night there is dancing there from seven until eight. Impromptu parties are held from time to time, such as the after-hour "cozies," with singing, dancing, and poetry reading. Pajama breakfasts are frequent, as are hilarious indoor picnics when milk bottles serve as candlesticks, paper plates, and tin cups are in order, and fortune-telling, tap-dancing specialties, and impromptu dramas add to the gaiety.

Carefully planned parties and dances are sponsored by the Hall's self-governing association at intervals throughout the year. A formal Thanksgiving dance was one on the last year's outstanding events. Open house days, teas, receptions, and buffet suppers are frequently held at the College's dormitory for girls.

MR. HUGH G. WALES
Director of Men's Activities.

Aside from the impromptu parties the social committee of the Hall makes out the social calendar for the girls living in the dormitory. Every girl has some responsibility during the year in the planning and carrying out of the social affairs. During the last year Velma Cass, vice-president of the self-governing association, was

DO STUDENTS LACK DETERMINATION

It has been said, and by some experts at that, that the College student of today lacks the spirit and determination to make a success in competitive existence, that the student of the present day is too conservative, too afraid to venture forth on unknown paths, and is, in general, a sort of "softy"—to use present-day slang.

Many commencement speakers, and other speakers as well, hurl such wise prophecy to the effect that "if society does not offer you a job, make one for yourself." The age when that command was logical has passed with the days of "the horse and buggy," and today's College graduate finds that he is entirely dependent upon what society gives him.

Too many times, things such as this are written as a justification for general lack of initiative, but such is not the case this time. We do not undertake to make an "excuse" for failure, but our issue is with the critic who insinuates that all College students lack determination and courage. If the continuance in the struggle for an education in a college while hundreds of other college students are in the army of unemployed does not require determination and courage, then nothing does. We cannot agree with a critic who states that the College student of today lacks the spirit and determination to make a success in competitive existence.

OUR SOCIAL LIFE

Social life on this campus plays a large part in the activities of the College. Each quarter of the year many parties, dances and other social functions take place, and this is especially true of the fall-winter-spring terms, when more than twenty-five organizations on the campus are active. Each organization has at least one social function a term, and some have many, many affairs during the course of a year.

Fraternities for men and sororities for women provide their members with entertainment at least once each week during the regular school term, and the friendships made in these organizations are true and lasting. Two such fraternities and two sororities are located on the campus here in Maryville.

The center of all social activity on the College campus is Residence Hall, the home of more than one hundred and fifty women each quarter. Dancing is enjoyed there each evening between the hours of 7 and 8 and on Friday and Saturday nights between the hours of 7 and 11. In addition, the women in the Hall provide other entertainment for residents there as well as sponsoring many public social affairs.

Social functions as provided on this campus assist in the education of a student to the extent that he will have a knowledge of what's right and what's wrong when he enters into society after he leaves College. Special class periods in Freshman Orientation are given over to the education of students along these lines, and the results are of lasting value to each student.

The Guest Editorial

THE NEXT THIRTY YEARS

Dr. Blanche H. Dow
Chairman, Department of Foreign Languages.

The College comes, with the end of this year, to the culmination of one period of its growth. Today it is a living testimony to the vision and to the effort of those who have made it possible. The achievement of these thirty years in the establishment and in the growth of the institution is something of which Northwest Missouri may be justly proud. The College is alive and growing. No longer need we be concerned with certain external aspects of its life which once gave us pause. Its enrollment may fluctuate slightly with the years and with the seasons, but its variations will be only incidental and of little moment. The College has made a place for itself among the institutions of fewer than one thousand students, and that place it will in all probability retain. The present deficiencies of its physical equipment will be supplied in time. New dormitories will completely house its students, men and women. Separate provision for the Demonstration School will give to that department a new opportunity for expansion and expression, releasing the entire facilities of the Administration Building for the College proper. A Library with space and quiet and the facilities for concentrated study will provide the atmosphere indispensable to high scholastic attainment. The Fine Arts and the Historical Collections will grow to need an adequate Museum for their housing. Buildings will be made comfortable. Dust ridden roads give way to paved driveways and immaculate lawns.

The place of the College as an integral part of the life of Northwest Missouri is secure. Its further physical development is assured. No more worthy wish could be made for its achievement in the next thirty years than that it should devote its attention and its effort to the moral and intellectual quality of its product, to the scholastic achievement, to the cultural development of its passing student generations.

The small college has no wish to vie with the great University organizations. It has no access to their greater wealth. It cannot compete with them in material and physical attainment. The provincial college cannot give directly to its students the enriching experience of the galleries, the libraries, the aesthetic expression of the urban centers. The young college cannot point to the stimulating and inspiring example of a long list of distinguished alumni. Our College is young and small and provincial. But an institution's youth is no barrier to the integrity of its purpose, to the honesty of its work. An institution's smallness insures for it certain advantages which are lost in the larger group. The remoteness of a college from the urbane culture of the city need not circumscribe its intellectual achievement. We deal with men and women, with human minds and human personalities, no greater and no less than those of other institutions, and we might, if we set ourselves to it, develop a standard of intellectual integrity and scholastic attainment which would make our College unique. Intellectual curiosity would be the incentive for our effort. Knowledge would supercede credits in the reckoning of rewards. Clear thinking would eliminate dishonest practice and makeshift. Work, stimulating and welcome, would never be drudgery. The function of the College would be seen in its proper light, that its role is not to finish an education but to begin it, that its purpose is to acquaint the student with some of the past to which his debt is incalculable, to open new roads before him, to indicate new horizons, to imbue him with a sense of his responsibility to the future.

The College could achieve no greater distinction in the next thirty years of its life than, with singularity of aim and seriousness of purpose, to devote its every energy to the attainment of such an ideal—integrity of purpose, soundness of scholarship, clearness of thinking, liberality of culture.

HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

A MONK WHO EXPLORED THE NEW WORLD/ LOUIS HENNEPIN

Father Hennepin was a Belgian missionary. Inspired by narratives of sea captains who had been to America, he joined La Salle, who later became his bitter enemy, on an expedition to Canada. His travels carried him through New York State, westward to Illinois and down the Mississippi River. After being held captive by the Sioux Indians for a year he was rescued by Count Du Lhut, and returned to France.

At home Hennepin published an account of his discoveries, in which he described Niagara Falls and claimed to have reached the mouth of the Mississippi. His later books were so unreliable that all his writings were soon looked upon with suspicion. By refusing to return to America, he made many enemies among his fellow monks, and his last years were spent in obscurity and disgrace.

A. A. Gailewicz To Fredonia, New York

Administration building there was devoted to the instruction of music.

The school plant at Fredonia is similar to the one in Maryville, Mr. Gailewicz said. One administration building, a gymnasium, and several other buildings on the campus comprise the Normal plant.

Mr. Gailewicz's work in his new position will consist entirely of teaching violin and string ensembles.

Miss Marian Kerr, also a member of the music faculty here, has visited Fredonia, and she reports that the city is about the size, or perhaps a little larger, than Maryville, and that it is a very nice town. It is 25 miles from Lake Chautauqua, a famous summer resort.

Mr. Gailewicz plans to be, during the summer, in the symphony orchestra at Lake Chautauque or at Lake Side on Lake Erie, another summer resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Gailewicz will leave about the middle of August and will visit with Mrs. Gailewicz's relatives in Pennsylvania, about thirty miles north of Pittsburgh, before proceeding on to Fredonia. They expect to be in Fredonia about the first of September.

Our government started as a great experiment, but experimenting stopped almost at once, for we assumed we had an inspired revelation. Government has been atrophied in its imperfection, while the creative spirit has found expression in other fields.

Prior to his election as state president, Heekin served as president of the Capitol Hill Young Democratic Club. He has spoken over national radio hook-ups on more than one occasion.

Heekin expects to remain in northwest Missouri until after November. He expressed himself as undecided regarding any other future plans.

Social Activities Are Prominent

chairman of the committee. Ethel Hester is the present chairman, and will continue through the regular school year.

Women who live out in town have their own organization, the Varsity Villagers, through which social activities are carried on. Thus, though they live in widely scattered homes in Maryville, the "off-campus" girls enjoy as varied a social life as is planned for the girls of Residence Hall. Teas, dances, theater "line" parties, hikes, picnics, and "splash" parties, were sponsored by the organization during the last year. A formal dinner, given at the Linville Hotel, was included in the group's activities. In addition to the parties planned by the Villagers are the ones given by the House Mothers Association for them.

Betty Bosch served as social chairman of the Varsity Villagers last year. Margaret McCrea is in charge of the summer activities, and Doris Hiles will be next year's chairman.

The College's four Greek letter fraternities Sigma Sigma Sigma, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Sigma Mu Delta, and Sigma Tau Gamma, provide a round of social events for their members. A number of formal and informal dances, as well as many fraternity "smokers" and sorority teas, are listed among the social engagements of the "Greeks."

Religious and scholastic organizations frequently have parties or dinners for their members. Numerous dances are sponsored during the year by pep squads and other groups. Several cleverly planned dances were held during the winter months, among them being the "M" Club's "Varsity Drag," the "Barkatze Kapers," the "Hash-slingers' Ball," the Peppers' "Leap Year Dance," and the annual "Scoop Dance" of the Missourian.

The most important event of the year for upperclassmen is the annual Junior-Senior Prom sponsored by the junior class sometime during the spring quarter. The event is a formal one. This year the Prom was held on April 18 in the west library.

The Christmas season is the gayest of the year at Maryville. Residence Hall girls have their traditional "Hanging of the Greens" ceremony and the lighting of the yule log. Open House is held at the Hall, and a formal dinner. The Varsity Villagers always have a Christmas party, and fraternities and sororities enjoy formal dances. And in addition to all these, there is the Christmas ball.

All social events of the year must be approved by the director of women's activities. Thus conflicts are avoided and affairs do not interfere with one another. Certain regulations of the College regarding the holding of parties are enforced by Miss Stephenson.

Every attempt is made to get new students adjusted to College life. By means of the Living in College section of the freshman orientation course, all new-comers are initiated into their new environment. The students are taught the fundamental principles of living with others.

The course deals with correct methods of introducing people, eating, invitations and replies, conduct at parties and dances, and many other situations in which college people are likely to be placed. Receptions and teas are discussed, and practice is given in receiving guests or being received by others. At the end of the course teas are given. At these events the students take turns serving as guests and hosts, all planning and serving being done by members of the class.

The Living in College section of the orientation class is taught by Miss Stephenson and Miss Millett. That their methods of teaching social usage are distinctive is evidenced by the fact that their recently published test on social usage has been adopted by many large universities. Wellesley, Boston University, the University of Utah, Syracuse University, and Ferry Hall are a few of the schools now using it.

Miss Stephenson and Miss Millett have also written a booklet on social usage for college students, "As Others Like You", and a syndicated column, "Mind Your Manners," which is to be run daily for a month in 750 newspapers.

By supplementing the varied social program of the College with the practical instruction on Living in College, the directors of women's activities, working in co-operation with Mr. Hugh Wales, director of men's activities, are succeeding in their efforts to develop students of the College into well-rounded persons. For students who have learned to adjust themselves to the new ways of College life are prepared to meet situations in later life. And that is the aim of the College social program.

What was the big attraction at Excelsior Springs the other night. There were only about 83 students of S. T. C. at Lake Maurer at the all-night dance and everyone had fun too. Sue and Jack, Bonnie and Joe, Med and Wes, and Francis and —? were some of the couples there. The bachelors were there in full force too, Paul Allen, Al Graves, Jerry Rowan, Walter Moore, Eddie Gickling and June Morgan. Oh I forgot— was June with you, Miss Maloy?

FOUND: A new way to make your caddy find your golf ball quicker, that is if you almost always shoot in No. 3 ditch. For further information see Belva Goff, but if she refuses to tell, well, here is at least part of her secret— tickle him until he finds it.

Walter Moore seems to be having lots of fun rocking the cradle but everyone must, at least sometime, go back to their childhood days. But everything seems safe and sound now that his brother is here to watch over him.

Have you all been in the Coffee Shop to get your cigar or candy bar—you know that Shorty and Helen got hitched up. So if you haven't received yours yet, just go in and tell Shorty about it. Then come around to the Sugar Bowl and dance with the rest of the loafers. That's the only place to spend a pleasant evening during this hot weather.

The weather is a little warm, Sue Hankins, but one doesn't have to lose their clothes just to keep cooler.

A few more people have acquired initials as their nicknames now. Miss Aileen Sifers already had hers. Now two more that I have just learned about are Lucy Mae Benson and Bee Leeson. Miss Benson's new nickname is D.D. and Miss Leeson's is N. B.

It seems that Liz Wright is going to have a visitor sometime this summer. Come around and tell me more about it, Liz.

Don't tell me that Miss Turpin has joined the ranks of the widows, but she sure did look sad the other night when the "Great Lover" Graves and "Gig" Lindley didn't show up. My! My! But such is life.

June Morgan seems to be racing his motor now with an uptown gal. He looks quite contented so I wish him the greatest luck.

How do you like "Lectures" Miss Ford? The certain kind given by House Mothers. Maybe you really didn't need one but we all lose our will-power at some time in life, don't we? The next time be sure and go where you say you are and then there won't be any long distance phone calls.

In the midst of a date the other night, Miss Hayden came in after a couple of pillows—her room mate laughed and laughed about this but maybe it isn't so funny because concrete steps aren't so soft to sit on.

Sorry that there's not any more but things have to happen before one can write about them. Come out in full force next week and get your name in the paper. Let your home folks read about you and know that you are leading a fine social life. Phooey from me to you until next week.

Clyde Tombaugh, who discovered the planet Pluto as an amateur astronomer six years ago, will begin star-gazing anew next month, this time with the benefit of a college education.

When he graduates from the University of Kansas in June Tombaugh expects to return to the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona, where he made his sensational find in 1930.

Tombaugh, who has spent his summer vacations while in school at the telescope, was hesitant to say that full-time work would produce new discoveries.

Alumni Notes

Miss Violet Hunter, a graduate of the College, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Saylor last week. While here, she attended the annual dinner of the Sigma Tau Delta, national writer's fraternity.

Miss Ruth Van Zant spent last week as the guest of Miss Mattie Dykes of the College English faculty. Miss Van Zant attended the dinner of the Sigma Tau Delta, national writer's fraternity. She expects to attend the University of Ohio next year to do work toward receiving the Ph D degree.

Walter Daffron, president of the Knights of the Hickory Stick, made an address at the annual picnic held at the Country Club Monday afternoon. He was accompanied to Maryville by Tracey Dale, former graduate of the College. Both Mr. Daffron and Mr. Dale teach in the St. Joseph school system.

Earl Duffy, county superintendent of schools of Davies county, and Frank Smith, county superintendent of schools of Holt county, competed in the golf tournament which was a feature of the Knights of the Hickory Stick picnic Monday afternoon at the Country Club. There was some feeling on the part of some of the contestants that Mr. Duffy should have been given a handicap because he is a professional.

Otis Thorborn, county superintendent of schools of Andrew county, occupied the pitcher's box in the softball game at the Hick-Stic-Pic Monday afternoon. He gave a nice demonstration of south-paw hurling.

Wilbur Heekin, a graduate in the class of 1934, returned home Monday from George Washington university in Washington, D. C., where he has just completed a course in law.

Miss Esther Gile has been employed to teach Physical Education in the St. Joseph school system next year.

Claude Thompson, superintendent of schools at Pattonsburg, visited his parents in Maryville last week and attended the Knights of the Hickory Stick picnic at the Country Club last Monday.

Mr. Clair Slonicker, a former student of the College who is now a commercial artist in Kansas City, said last week that his nephew, Lowell Deane Slonicker, will enter the College as a freshman this fall. Lowell Deane was graduated from the Trenton high school this spring. He played center on the Trenton high football team.

Sports Column..

By GEORGE FRACKER

Well your commentator is wrong again making my batting average as low as Joe DiMaggio's in the All-Star Game. My only alibi is that Joe "let me down." He committed two glaring misplays in the field, one and only official error in the game, and each one allowed the Nationals to score two runs. But the prize flop was in the 7th when he lined out to Durocher, ending in American rally, with the bases loaded and the tying run on third. The pace set by this team mates and the opposition was entirely too fast for a "freshman."

The pitching for the Nationals was a shade better than the Americans, with the exception of Curt Davis. None of the National hurlers were ever in trouble. The orchids for the American pitching goes to Mel Harder of the Cleveland Indians. Mel, the hero of the All-Star game last year and the savior of the Americans in 1934, pitched beautiful ball the three innings he worked despite very heavy duty lately in the regular league games.

I would have given a lot to have seen "Dizzy" Dean and Mel pitch that whole game Tuesday. Mel is not as famous as the great "Diz" but I'm not so sure of the outcome of the game would not have been different.

It's New York for Neil and Olympic Finals and then Berlin. We sincerely hope. "Poosh em up" to 50 feet Hersh, and there won't be any Louisiana opposition.

Back to base ball for a few comments on the regular league standings. With the exception of the league leading New York Yankees the rest of the American league first division is greatly changed. The Boston "Red Flogs" have lost their hold on second place giving away to the world Champion Detroit Tigers. The "Yankee Gang" is in third with the Washington Senators and the Cleveland Indians in fourth and fifth respectively.

By the way the odds on the Yankees winning the American League pennant are now quoted at 4 to 1. The rate that they are traveling and the lead they have make those odds look rather short. Of course DiMaggio might fold up like he did in the All-Star Game, and Gehrig might break a leg, and the pitching staff might get water on the brain, or something, but values all these things happen it looks as if the "Yanks are coming" in.

The National League race is far from settled however with a toss up between the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals. Those young up and coming Cincinnati Reds can't be counted out of the race either as yet. Many writers pick the Reds to finish first with in the next 4 years. Who knows, this being a year of sport up sets, they might put on a finish and edge out their western rivals. Here's hoping.

Men fear thought as they fear nothing else on earth—more than ruin, more even than death. Thought is subversive and revolutionary, destructive and terrible; thought is merciless to privilege, established institutions, and comfortable habits; thought is anarchic and lawless, indifferent to authority, careless of the well tried wisdom of the ages.—B. Russell.

If life is to be fully human it must serve some end which seems in some sense, outside human life, some end which is impersonal and above mankind, such as God or truth or beauty.—B. Russell.

and softball, Checkers were provided for those who wished to play. Many of the educators were content to lounge in the shade and watch the more active ones perform.

Harl Holt, student golf instructor at the College, was medalist in the afternoon play. He shot a low score of 43, against a 48 for Orville Livingston. Fifteen men participated in the medal play.

In the other sport events of the afternoon, the teams piloted by Walter Rulon and Luke Palumbo made a clean sweep of their respective series of softball, pin ball, and volley ball. Dinner halted a play-off softball tussle between the two undefeated aggregations.

"Lefty" Davis coached his proteges to a 2 to 1 win over the team captained by Marsh Reynolds. As a result of their losses to the league leaders, the clubs of "Pat" Crow and Garvin Williams occupied the cellar position at the end of the day's competition. The evening meal, consisting of sandwiches, pickles, salad, iced tea, apple pie, and ice cream, was served at 6:30 p. m. Lemonade had been available throughout the afternoon.

Following the picnic supper, Mr. A. H. Cooper presided at a short meeting. A brass ensemble, composed of William Somerville, Mr. Alphonse Gailewicz, Mr. Hugh Wales, Mr. Norval Saylor, and Clement Williamson, provided accompaniment for group singing led by Keith Seville.

Mr. Walter Daffron of St. Joseph, president of the organization, spoke briefly on the aims and plans of the Knights of the Hickory Stick. Dean J. C. Miller discussed the importance of the school men's organization. President

Lamkin told of a few of the high-points of the N. E. A. meeting in Portland. Other speakers included Superintendent Stutsman of St. Joseph, Dr. Jesse Miller, Mr. Fred Hull, Mr. Arthur Daley, and Mr. Tracy Dale.

Several men took advantage of an opportunity to swim in the College pool when they returned to town.

The following committees were responsible for the success of the picnic:

Finance, Harry Burr, chairman, Olin Schmidt, Lewis Wallace, Raymond Harris, Shelby Runyan and L. E. Somerville; lemonade, Everett Brown, chairman, Henry Robinson, Lawrence Knepper and Ed Anderson; program, Dean Miller, chairman, William Somerville, Mr. A. A. Gailewicz and Clement Williamson; foods, Berry Hill, chairman, Don Reece, Orville Kelim, John Writht, Ed Hiner, Harvey Hollar and Mr. Hugh G. Wales.

Publicity, Warren Crow, chairman, and Frederick Schneider; athletics and games, Luke Palumbo, chairman, Walter Rulon, Garvin Williams, Marsh Reynolds and Mr. E. A. Davis; transportation, Owen Thompson, chairman, and Byron Wiedemier.

Professor Merriam Moore of the public health department at Columbia University, was a guest last week of Miss Helen Crahan, music instructor at the College. Miss Moore is en route to California.

We have only just begun to explore man's nature and the world in which he is placed. We have methods of research which were not available a century ago.

Young Democrats Oranize

An organization of College Young Democrats was perfected at the College this week. Robert Liggett was elected president; Harold Wilson, secretary; June Morgan, treasurer; and Walter Moore, sergeant-at-arms. The group meets each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Social Hall.

At the meeting Wednesday, July 8, plans were made for a picnic to be held at the Maryville Country Club next Thursday, July 16. Golf and other games will be played until six o'clock at which time a picnic supper will be served.

Following several songs, a member of the College group will speak on "Why Youth Will Support the New Deal."

Tickets for the supper will be 25 cents and tickets for dancing and card games in the club house will be 25 cents, but all who are registered members of the Young Democrats of America will be admitted free to the dancing and card playing upon presentation of their cards.

Golda Belle Crisman and Yvonne Jacoby are leaders of sides in a membership drive contest. The losing side will treat the winning to a dinner at the close of the contest.
